TWENTY LEAVE SCHOOL WITH DIPLOMAS, HONORS AND FLOWERS

Brilliant Scene Last Night at Covina Union High School When Class of '11 Holds Commencement--Dr. Hughes Urges Best Use of Knowledge For World's Betterment

Bewildering beauty in colorful mounds of flowers, with the Shasta daisy, chosen blossom of the class, in predominance, was a part of the scene that greeted the people who filled to overflowing the auditorium of the Covina Union High School last night at the commencement exercises of the class of 1911, and behind the generous blossoms of blooms, twenty young men and women, who are to be launched upon wider seas, received the parchments which stand for honorable graduation from Covina's highest educational institution. The elaborate, yet simple, ceremony that means so much, and will continue to mean much through life, held the audience of relatives and friends charmed. The people applauded each young graduate with a spontaneous outburst that came from full and praising hearts.

With the opening of the program at 8:15 by a number, "The Bridal Rose Overture," for the full high school orchestra, the occasion was given the right touch to harmonize with the numbers to follow. Prof. R. W. Groom, with over thirty pieces in the orchestra, gave a fine rendition of the number, and later played a spirited march number for orchestra, "Ye Boston Tea Party," by Pryor. Another very pleasing musical number was the song,
"Fluting Days," by the high school glee club.

The exercises were opened with a

A. Hunter of the 108th was delivered by Dr. Matt S. Hughes, pastor of the First Methodist church of Pasadena. He spoke of the subject,
"The Uses of Knowledge." Bound up in the minds of many men, he said, was a conglomeration of knowledge that would never be put to any adequate use. Bacon, years ago, evolved a saying, which has since become a common phrase, that "knowledge is power." Knowledge is not power, the speaker said, unless the knowledge is applied. Just as one may assemble the building material for a house, the stone and the brick in piles, one must accumulate and acquire knowledge, but the stone and the brick are not houses, and will never become houses unless assembled into the building by men who possess not only the knowledge of building, but the ability to apply it. He spoke of Matthew Arnold's story of the seeming desire on the part of humanity to connect "one little dismal town with another" by telegraph, by railroad train and other facilities, in order that the dismal things of one town might be imparted to the dismal people of another town.

The use of knowledge is in widening one's vision of life, the speaker said. The most pitiable thing about the ignorant, is the fact of their narrow outlook upon life; that they are not able to see anything in the common things of life excepting the common thing for which it stood, and never to understand or enjoy the thousand associations that cluster around every possible thing within the universe.

"Life is made up only of the things which you are alive to," he said. He went on to speak satirically of the social gatherings in any city or town, where the hostess is at her wit's end to provide entertainment for the guests, because the guests "brought nothing in their minds with which to entertain themselves or the assembled company."

The ultimate aim of all knowledge is to make men of the world's people, and not money. The difference between knowledge and wisdom, is that one may only be the acquired education of a man from another's brains, while wisdom is that great thing which a man knows of himself, and a man who knows is made humble, for he finds out for himself how little he really knows. And ultimately knowledge and its use must lead a man or woman to the higher life of morality, or all knowledge will fail, he said. It is behind the counter or in the farmer's field who is the man on whom the responsibility of the world rests, and not on the capable, brilliant, but dishonest man. Use knowledge for the upbuilding of the world, and not for the amassing of great fortunes.

Following the address, Prof. Ray E.
Chase, class teacher, presented the class, after which the diplomas were presented to each by President S. A.
Stowell of the board of trustees. He made a very happily chosen speech in giving the class these acknowledgments of their honorable passing from the school doors.

After a benediction pronounced by Rev. W. W. Catherwood of the Baptist church, the giving of flowers commenced, which is one of the happiest moments of commencement exercises.
The flowers were gorgeous and profuse, each graduate being smothered in the offerings of the friends and relatives in the audience. The personnel of the class is as follows:

POPULARITY OF EXHIBITS.
In the upper rooms of the building, the drawing and work of the scholars in the past year were on exhibition, and crowds of people have made appreciative inspection of these departments.
Especially pleasing has been the exhibit in the manual training department, the work over which Charles E. Tredway has had supervision. Here, the boys and girls have been toiling over the making of furniture in oak and pine, and the result has been remarkable. Mr. Tredway has been able to bring out latent talent in many of the scholars, and the finished desks, tables, chairs, stands and tabourets are the result of his cooperation with the scholars in this pleasant occupation.

SIGNALS AT CROSSINGS

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER INVES-TIGATING BECAUSE OF LOCAL ACCIDENT.

Injury of Covina Man and Tragedy at Whittier Enlists Help of County Officials.

As a result of the serious accident which occurred last Sunday on the Pacific Electric line, when Walter Gilmore came near losing his life in company with Miss Clara Amon, while crossing the tracks in an automobile, the state railroad commissioner has been in conference with the board of superisors, the Los Angeles county grand jury, and the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric officials, during the week. The accident on the Covina tracks came just after the grand jury had sent an urgent letter to the governor of California in relation to the horrible tragedy on the Whittier line, when five people were killed. Superintendent A. E. Roome of the Pacific Electric railway, in charge of telephone, telegraph and signal systems on the company's lines, made a trip to Covina on Wednesday, in his special car, "El Amigo," and in an interview with a newspaperman, said that he was making preliminary arrangements toward the possible establishment of adequate signals at grade crossings.

Miss Clara Amon, who was driving the Buick roadster at the time it struck the Pacific Electric car, is an experienced driver. She had been a driver of her automobile for three years, and has crossed the tracks of the railroads hundreds of times. She said shortly after the accident that she slowed up to almost a stop, just track, before crossing. The poles in the center of the right of way hid the oncoming train, which was a doubleheader from San Dimas, bound for Los Angeles. The train struck the hind wheel of the automobile and threw it against a post near the track. The entire rear end of the machine was crushed like an eggshell, but the front wheels and engine were not injured. Miss Amon was thrown in the air, but managed to cling to the wheel and was uninjured, but Gilmore was thrown completely out of the machine onto the Pacific Electric tracks. He sustained serious injuries in his back, a wrenched ankle, a sprained wrist, and cuts and bruises about the head. He was taken to the Amon home, a half mile away, and treated by Drs. Jennings of Covina and Hill of Azusa. It was several days before the physicians were ready to say that he was out of danger, but he is recovering slowly from his experience.

The attention paid to the condition of grade crossings in the orchard districts by the grand jury and the board of supervisors bids fair to result in specific action. Secretary Matthews of the grand jury was on the scene of the accident shortly after it happened, and he took a detailed account to the grand jury, together with a list of resolutions from the Covina city board of trustees, later in the week. The general manager of the Pacific Electric, together with a number of his subordinates, and big officials of the Southern Pacific, spent one entire day with the grand jury and with Commissioner Eschelman, looking over the scenes of the accidents on the Whittier and Covina lines. No such prompt action has ever before been forthcoming from railroad officials. Although Governor Johnson has given no opinion regarding the letter which he received from the grand jury, his action in turning it immediately over to the railroad commissioner means that he is heartily in sympathy with the movement for protection at these grade
crossings.

The accident at Azusa avenue on Sunday is at the same spot where Prof. Fitzgerald of the Covina high school was killed several years ago, and several narrow escapes have been experienced at this place. While the citizens generally feel that the automobile driver must use more care in going across these intersections, it is also felt that adequate signals should be placed at each intersection, that will make it practically impossible for a team, automobile or pedestrian to cross without full warning.

AT LIFE'S CROSSROADS

Four Years Finished At Covina's Highest Educational Institution, With New Paths To Tread, Class of '11 Graduates With Many Exercises, Both Grave and Gay, Before Citizens of the Valley. Minister Says to "Dream Long Dreams."

One long week of programs, with the Southern California championship auditorium filled to overflowing on each occasion, has fitfully closed the school year for Covina. In the magnificent $500,000 high school building, in one of the finest auditoriums in Southern California, the class of 1911, assisted by the entire student body and faculty, has given pleasure, entertainment and instruction to the people who have made this educational system possible.

Prof. J. J. Morgan, principal of the entire system of graded schools and the high school in the Covina valley, has gradually surrounded himself with an exceptionally efficient staff of teachers, and the result is more than gratifying.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

A little book-brochure should be made of the baccalaureate address to the class of 1911, delivered Sunday night by Rev. Bede A. Johnson of the Methodist Episcopal Church—a copy of the words of this address, that might be kept in readiness for the hour when the grip is loosening, and the tide of failure seems about to engulf and envelop the aspirant for honors in the world's workshop. In Rev. Mr. Johnson's address, which he called "The Vision of Life's Work," he said many things ages old in philosophy, but with a new turn, a new edition, a fitting binding, that carried conviction to the hearts of the listening people. In an auditorium that seats 700 people, there were no seats to be had after 7:45 o'clock, and the tardy ones stood in large numbers on the porch, and in the approaches to the house of worship. The house was decorated in the beautiful, seasonable blossoms of a Covina summer, while over the heads of the people on the platform the banner of the class of 1911 was displayed in the gold and white class colors.

On the stage with the speaker, were the members of the board of trustees, and the ministers, Rev. W. W. Catherwood and Dr. W. A. Hunter, who both participated in the prayers for divine guidance. An augmented choir from all the churches occupied the loft, and the high school orchestra, led by Prof. R. W. Groom of the music course of Covina's high school, led the big congregation in hymns. Mrs. W. W. Nuzum sang "Abide With Me," a new setting for soprano, with beautiful high note in his words to the class. "I am doing a great work. I cannot come down." This reply of Nehemiah of the Bible, when urged to take up other work than that to which he had set his heart, was taken by the speaker to show the necessity for carrying out the vision of work in life with fidelity. Nehemiah, a slave, dreamed long dreams through his youth of bondage, of the time when he would be called by God to restore the fallen walls of the city of his fathers. When tempted, at the pinnacle of his endeavor, he sent down the firm reply, "I am doing a great work. I cannot come down." The speaker spoke of the tolling of Abe Lincoln, by the pine knot torch, in the forest cabin, and of his preparation for the time when God should call him to lead a sick and bleeding country toward the light and freedom for a million slaves.

To ministers of the gospel, the speaker said, the term "called" was most often applied. But to be "called" by God to a task, applies to every work in the universe. The doctor, if he is not a failure, has a God-given call to heal, the lawyer, who is a true and great ambassador of peace, is a God-given and God-called member of the bar, and the hewers of wood in the world, and doers of the little tasks, if they fit in their niche, and have joyously found their place, are called by God to perform the humble things that make up the entity of life.

The speaker said that one of the great mistakes of older people is that of advising the young man and young woman as to his or her vocation and life-work. Only to God should this be taken, and never to any human being. In this fact lies the many failures of misdirected boys and girls. He urged the scholars to go on preparing themselves for the work of life, reminding them that their graduation from the high school was but the opening of the door that led to the possibilities for greater learning, and for the preparation for the long ascent to useful manhood and womanhood, for the greatest and best application to the duties of Christian citizenship.

REED ORATORICAL CONTEST.
After winning the tri-scholastic debate, the Los Angeles county debate, and the Southern California championship from all the high schools, Fred T. Chamberlen, a graduate of the Covina High School this year, would up an enviable record on the platform, by winning, as he did last year, the Reed Oratorical Contest, before a well-filled auditorium at the high school building on Monday night. Fred Chamberlen's work in the Covina high school has reflected credit on the educational system of the valley. He has maintained an average of 90 per cent in all his studies, thus proved that his application to oratory and English has not caused his general studies to suffer, and he graduates with the God-speed of every teacher in the institution. In the trophy case at the school is reposing the banner which he brought home from the tri-scholastic debate, and about to step out of the life of Covina High School prepared a program that was very funny in spots, and instructive to a stranger who did not know the "what" who in Covina."

Chamberlen's address was entitled, "The Doom of War." That the so-called civilized nations of the world cannot much longer tolerate the hideous barbarism of bloodshed, that international and internecine warfare shall cease, was the optimistic note which he sounded, but his address, although an advocacy for peace, was filled with a militant ring of righteous anger against the curse of the nations. He quoted astounding figures, showing the immense cost of the standing armies of the world, and pointed out the utter uselessness of the millions of dollars worth of floating engines of war that drain the resources of every country. He said that bankruptcy hovered on the supposed prosperity of great nations because of this scourge, and pointed out that this was the enormous expense of peace navies and armies, and not the unimaginable expense should war occur. Chamberlen's delivery was forceful and his voice good. He has improved much in facial expression during the past year, and has learned the value of varying his tones. Besides the silver cup and banner, Chamberlen has received as a prize from the Los Angeles county victory, a set of Shakespeare's works, and Monday night's triumph will bring him books to the amount of $12, of his own selection, his share of the Reed prizes.

On the platform with him were other aspirants for the prizes, the first to speak being Miss Mabel Chamberlen, who chose as her subject, "The American City." American cities are big, but not beautiful, she said, and brought to bear the example of German cities, that are especially laid out with a desire for beauty, vacant lots being planted to flowers, so that all land not occupied with buildings is virtually in a park system. Some startling figures were given by the speaker regarding the awful congestion to be found in the great cities of America, where men, women and children often are abated but six square feet as their share to live, eat and sleep in.

Miss Louise Carroll gave a very stirring address on "The Child Labor Question." Some more civilized country should send missionaries to us, she said, who was being entertained in one of the large cities, and when asked what impressed him most in the American civilization, said: "Little children working." Fifty years ago, we liberated two million black slaves, she said. How long will it be before the equally large number of little children will be taken from the sweatshops, the looms and the killing factories?

"Education and Democracy" was the subject chosen by Miss Jessie Chase, whose voice was well-modulated, clear and exceptionally pleasant. She gave her address in an unaffected manner, and created a splendid impression. The American people are too self-willed to obey, or follow the leadership of the leaders they have themselves chosen, she said. A democracy is not "I am as good as you," but "you are as good as I am." Education will play a decidedly prominent part in checking the iniquity and preventing the dishonor of the nation, she said.

The oration by Noah Bashore was on "Perseverance." Genius is of no avail unless backed up by the determination to carry out the creature born of genius, he stated. Genius is something that lies as a dead thing, without accomplished result, unless perseverance is allied to it, making it effective. The great things of life have sometimes been planned and dreamed of by geniuses, but the achievements have only been brought to the pinnacle of success through some person's determination to fight on in the face of many obstacles.

The chairman of the evening was Ray Kistler, and on the program was a soprano solo by Miss Gertrude Hulce, who sang Strimson's "Voice of Spring," accompanied by Miss Crete King. Miss Hulce was in beautiful voice, but did not respond to the insistent demand for an encore number. The high school glee club sang two numbers very creditably, under the direction of Prof. R. W. Groom, and another musical number which received much applause was the brass quartette, composed of Glen Leisure and Boyd King, cornets; Clyde King, trombone, and Samuel Scofield, euphonium. They played a rendition of Piusini's "Good Night, Beloved."

Dr. J. D. Reed, who is the donor of the prizes which have made possible these oratorical contests, was not present, having been called to the East, through the death of a sister. Prof. J. J. Morgan made this announcement, and spoke in high terms of the generosity of the local physician, which was bringing about such gratifying results.

CLASS NIGHT.
When "everything goes," and everybody gets the shun direct from the shoulder. That's class night. The only place the faculty has in the class night exercises is that of "the goat." And every citizen in town that can lay claim to any prominence "gets the hook" without mercy. It's a case of class night, "where friendship ceases."

The exercises on Wednesday night were no exception to the rule. The young ladies and gentlemen who are pictures in behalf of his class. Prof. Morgan replied for the school. The pictures, one being that of "The Angelus," and the other a nature picture, will be hung in the school building.

THE BASKETBALL GIRLS.

At the close of the class exercises, a surprise was "rung in" on the girls of the basketball team, who have won their way to the top in the games this season. After having taken everything in Southern California among high schools, with the exception of the strong team at Long Beach, which they held down to a score of 9 to 7, this team of girls was considered by the Covina school board of trustees to be deserving of some recognition.

The girls were asked to go on the stage and give their well-known basketball yell. When this was finished, they found that Trustee W. P. Watts was right behind them, and in a neat speech, he presented the girls with medals, bearing appropriate words of appreciation. The girls who belonged to this team and received medals are: Leslie Fairly, Celo Potter, Hessa Graham, May Casey, Esther Scofield, Grace Butler, Ethel Casey, and Edith Hull.

DISCS ARE REMOVED.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Gant Successfully Operated On For Peculiar Trouble.

After seven months of suffering from one of the most peculiar cases which the physicians and surgeons have ever met with in the annals of the profession, Earl Gant, the nine years old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Gant, has been relieved of three metal discs, which had lodged in his throat, and the lad is now on the road to recovery. The little pieces of tin were taken from the lad's esophagus last week, after it had been said that it was practically impossible to remove them without doing too much injury to the boy.

The lad had been treated for some time at the California hospital by Drs. McCoy and Hastings, house surgeons, after he had been under the care of Dr. J. D. Reed of Covina, who advised the parents to take him to Los Angeles for hospital treatment. It was at the hospital that several X-ray pictures were taken, showing the circular piece of matter in the esophagus, just between the second and third ribs. It was so firmly imbedded in the boy's throat that the doctors did not dare to try to remove it with instruments. Although the boy had been carrying the metal in his throat for many months, he was not a particularly sickly lad, and when released from the hospital, came to Covina, and was seen playing with his comrades. It was one night last week that the boy called to his parents and said:

"Those things are slipping. They are moving around in my throat." He was hurried to the hospital, where Drs. McCoy and Hastings removed three discs through the mouth with instruments. The discs are being sent to the University of California for rapid analysis, and physicians say will never have any ill effects from his peculiar experience.

M. LEONHARDT, Secretary. Covina, California, June 8th, 1911.

ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

Covina Irrigating Company, principal place of business, Covina, Rowland Township, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the directors, held on the seventh day of June, 1911, an assessment (No. 55) of 200 cents per share was levied upon the capital stock (as increased October 22, 1886) of the above-named corporation, payable immediately to the secretary at the office of the company in Covina, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 10th day of July, 1911, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before, will be sold on the 31st day of July, 1911, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the office of the company in Covina, County of Los Angeles, State of California, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with the cost of advertising and expense of sale.

B. F. EDWARDS, Secretary. Covina, June 7, 1911.

Gyp-Manure Fertilizer

We are now prepared to mix gypsum thoroughly with the manure at the Cudahy Packing Co., of Los Angeles, either as it is loaded into the car or mixed in a pile and allowed to rot before shipping. One grower is now having 40 tons of gypsum mixed with 10 cars to rot before shipping. This manure is all on pavement and not any liquid is lost. The gypsum absorbs the liquid and converts it into sulphate of ammonia which is not volatile. It is one of the best available forms of nitrogen. According to government authority about 5% of the value of the manure is in the liquid and this is mostly lost as you ordinarily get it. This will only cost you the price of the gypsum and actual expense. Guaranteed as represented.

Special Notice

For the present we are going to offer the growers our highest grade gypsum, 90 to 95% or a guaranteed average of 93%, free from moisture and injurious impurities, for the low price of $5.50 f.o.b. Santa Fe, in 100 lb. sacks, or will deliver it to your place within a reasonable distance for 75 cents per ton extra. Ask for special prices on S. P. points.

GET A SAMPLE of our regular high grade and compare it with any 93% gypsum offered, and see that ours is so much whiter that there is no comparison. All the gypsum offered you is white gypsum and the whiter, the higher it runs in sulphate of lime. You will have to buy other gypsum at about $4.00 to get the value we are now offering. Call up S. Theatrical Notes

Belasco.

"Merely Mary Ann," Israel Zangwill's radiant comedy of the "lady slave," has proved such a success again in the hands of Lewis S. Stone and the Belasco stock company, that it will be repeated for one more week, beginning Monday evening. This is a remarkable record for any play, as this is the fourth time it has been given in Los Angeles, and the third time by a stock company. The principal reason for its popularity in the present interpretation, of course, is the unfailing freshness and charm of Marjorie Rameau's delineation of the title part, in which she has more than repeated her success of last year. All suspicion that her big hit in this role might have been due to the customary warm welcome given a new leading woman has been dispelled. The vital, humanizing quality she imparts to every scene makes the pathetic figure absolutely irresistible in its simple sincerity. Whether she is blacking the shoes in the first act, or presiding over her drawing room in the last, she is always natural, easy and charming. Mr. Stone as Laurence offers an interesting study of the Englishman whose pride of caste will permit him to lead astray the friendless girl, but will not permit him to marry her. An interesting coincidence occurs in this regard, in that Mr. Stone, in the next Belasco offering, "The House Next Door," will play the part of another very different character who becomes involved in the the British prejudice regarding family and race. In "Merely Mary Ann" the entire Belasco cast appears to good advantage. Richard Vivian as the tune-writing business man, Ida Lewis as the landlady, and Roberta Arnold's giggle which is rapidly becoming a sort of civic institution, have been commented upon favorably. "The House Next Door" will be given next week, so this will be absolutely the final presentation of "Merely Mary Ann."

Burbank.

Richard Bennett's characterization of the French adventurer in "Pierre of the Plains" promises to become as regular and popular an annual event as the Tournament of Roses and Christmas Day. Such big houses have greeted his appearance for the last week at the Burbank in this play of the untamed west, that Manager Morosco has decided to repeat the favorite for the second week of Mr. Bennett's engagement. This is the third time that this star has played this part in Los Angeles in special engagements with stock companies, and the ensuing week will be the fifth week for the piece in three years, and still the demand for seats for the virile Selwyn-Parker drama keeps up. It is more than likely that the coming week will be the last appearance of Pierre in Los Angeles, however, as even should Mr. Bennett's starring contract with Liebler & Co. permit of his return here in the autumn of 1913 his return next year, Pierre will be given a vacation. Four successive years is too much to ask of any play. Aside from Mr. Bennett's own performance, the Burbank company has won unstinted praise for its uniformly excellent work in the supporting cast. David H. Hartford as the vengeful trapper who matches wits and strength with Pierre is one of his best assignments. The fight to the death between the two is one of the most realistic and thrilling affairs ever seen upon a stage. Frederick Gilbert, who has just returned from Chicago where he played in "The Fox," is back in the cast. David Landau, Willis Marks, H. S. Duffield, Mable Morrison, Charles Ruggles, Howard Scott and all the other Burbankers are very much at home in the familiar piece. This will be the last week of "Pierre." It will be followed by James Montgomery's new play, "Jimmy Jr.," in which Richard Bennett will appear as the lively and resourceful son of a millionaire who is involved in a political battle.

Pantages.

George Primrose, the famous minstrel man, creator of dances and leader in the realm of burnt cork for thirty-five years, is the prominent feature of the new Pantages bill which comes to Los Angeles Monday afternoon. He brings with him Dancing Boys who are nearly as clever as their veteran teacher. Primrose is one of the handful of living representatives of real minstrelsy who have outlived the old-fashioned blackface shows and gone into vaudeville. His school of dancing has produced more top-liners in its class than any other, and the popularity of the minstrel days retains his popularity. His act is a condensation of the best features of a minstrel show, with its lively doings and rag-time songs. The soft-shoe dancing especially is promised as a unique feature. Tallman, a pool and billiard expert, who is billed as a champion, will give an interesting demonstration of the great variety of plain and fancy shots. In addition to running down the fifteen balls without a miss, he will perform a number of freak stunts with the cue and ivory. Trif, the English comedian who is a ventriloquist, mimic and juggler, will bring his annual line of comedy entertainment, including a satire on juggling and an Englishman's description of a baseball game. Schroder and Chappelle, who have made a specialty of comedy sketches in the past, will this season bring a new playlet, "During One's Life," which is a combination of comedy, tears and morals. The three Burns sisters will have the musical attraction of the show in a vocal piano and cello offering. The Diamond Duo of Italian musicians will bring a melodious novelty. There will be a new set of motion pictures to put a period to the show.

Little "Want Ads." bring big returns.

High School Items

Well, the Commencement week circus has come and gone, and left in its wake a shower of programs and dust all over the building, which will keep Mr. Smith actively engaged for a few days, before the school is once more ready for its annual period of somnolence between the end of Commencement and the opening of the first semester in September.

The Commencement number of the Cardinal was issued to the students Tuesday morning, and the entire edition was sold out within a short time. All agree that the number is the most elaborate and largest, as well as the most artistic, that the high school has its existence in 1900. The total cost of publishing the annual was nearly $300.00, making each copy cost practically $1.75. This is the most expensive publication the school has ever gotten out, and owing to the splendid support of the students, school board and advertisers, the management was able to pay all the bills, and leave the school a clean slate to start on next year, instead of a deficit, as in 1910.

Special attention and applause greeted the novel and appropriate class day program, given by the Seniors Wednesday night. Without intending to offend anyone, I beg to say that Hades was very much in evidence and that many people in the audience were landed there pictorially, at least.

The genial proprietors of the Palace of Sweets, Morris and Maltby, entertained the Seniors right royally with a "feed" at their popular establishment Wednesday afternoon. Said feed was greatly appreciated by the class of 1911, who voted them the best caterers in town.

Picnics! picnics! picnics! Thursday was the chosen day for nearly all the classes to get "back to Nature." The Seniors went on a hay ride to San Dimas canyon; the Juniors by auto to Ganesha Park; while the Sophs. rambled to Robert's canyon, and hunted for rattlesnakes and poison oak while enjoying themselves greatly.

Final examinations for the three under classes were held Wednesday all day, and Thursday and Friday were practically vacation, as there was no session of school on those two dates. The teachers spent a very delightful (?) day looking over some hundreds of papers, but it is not stated that they were compelled to resort to the time-honored method of daubing the papers with glue, throwing them at the wall, and passing those that stuck.

The drawing, Manual Training and Domestic Science exhibits held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, attracted great attention and not a little favorable comment. Many excellent specimens of work by students from primary grades to Senior were shown.

The teachers are planning to hie themselves away from the arduous duties of school-work, which, by the way, is at times somewhat harder on the teacher than the pupil, and rest up, either at home or far, far away, where the sounding billows roar or the big pines grow undisturbed. It is rumored that Miss Sellards and Miss Hite are going to be real pioneers, and will migrate up to the "Big Tree" region near the Yosemite and take up a claim. Miss Fitch will attend summer school at Berkeley; Miss Price will stay with relatives at South Pasadena; Mr. Morgan and his wife will attend the N. E. A. Convention at Frisco, and later will probably go to Tahoe; while Mr. Chase says he intends to visit the N. E. A. also. Mr. Healy will "stick around" Covina and will devote his talents to raising chickens and enjoying the merry farmer's life; while Miss Griswold says she will take a look at Tahoe, and Miss Lemonds will go to Long Beach with Miss Hawes of Pasadena High, and listen to the band and the sound-breaking. Mr. MacFarland intends, if possible, to attend summer school at Berkeley.

Well, this ends the chronicle of school affairs. I have taken my trusty typewriter and depicted—or attempted to—the various "doings" and events, sad and gay, of the Covina High, for the past three years. I am now a grave and reverend senior, although I don't look like it, and must now depart from C. H. S. to pastures new. So I bid you farewell, and know that if I may have succeeded at times in amusing or entertaining you with my "stuff," that this department of the Argus has not failed of its purpose—to give you an insight into school affairs from the viewpoint of the students.

Clean Up, or Forfeit Our Support.

In the parlance of thieves who possess some respect for the ethics of their profession, the political grafting and arrogant, open-day robbery in the government of the city of San Francisco, is "crude." It has long since lost the finesse so loved by the professional cracksmen, the come-on companies, engaged in cleaning the sucker of his cash by the least painful method. A good thief hates to give pain; it isn't ethical. It's the height of violation to his ideas of the proper thing, to have the roar of protest follow the separation from money. For the victim to be pleased with the deal, is to win the admiration of all arch crooks. San Francisco political government, under the present mayor, has lost all sight of the adept ways of grafting. It is the crudest kind of a regime of crime; all bars down. The crooks are getting so powerful; are now so powerful, that they will soon demand that the victim come to them and beg for the privilege of being fleeced.

Gentlemen of San Francisco, Southern California is not going to stand for this condition of things long. You of the northern city are no longer an entity unto yourselves. You have asked and received the support of the state for the Panama Exposition. Southern California has met your representatives and treated them courteously; the strength of the south in money and brains has been given you; you have bonded the great state for a portion, a large portion of the expense of this exposition. You are no longer a city whose contempt of the righteous can go without challenge. We, of the south, now own a part of your city, as it is the accepted site for the exposition which is to represent the state in the eyes of the visiting and reading world. Gentlemen of San Francisco, you have got to clean up that city, and do it within a reasonably short time, or the south will withdraw its support. It is high time that an honest threat is uttered.

In all the pitiable history of graft in municipal affairs in the United States, San Francisco stands out high and disdainful, as the most crudely rotten of them all. Not even Philadelphia had the courage to deal so openly. New York city has never altogether lost sight of this finesse of the under-world. What's the use in further explaining? The state knows it. The people of California look with dread upon that so-called rejuvenated city of the Golden Gate.

This editorial, appearing in a weekly paper in Southern California, is just one voice. It is the beginning of a fight that is going to sweep across and through this state, gentlemen. You cannot have the fair in San Francisco until you clean up the city and keep it clean. "Don't visit us during the Panama Exposition. The city is filled with desperate things and it is not safe here." In the quotation above, you will see the gist of thousands of letters that will go out from California, if the exposition is held under a like regime to the one now in power. Mayor McCarthy removed his police chief recently, a man who had begun to show signs of being restive under the reigning police protection to San Francisco's hell sections. McCarthy's new choice stood up and declared that he was going to make San Francisco clean. God! How that statement echoed and reechoed in the hell-chambers of laughter. What a bon mot that must have been for the devil!

California has not investigated or thought upon what is to happen in the arranging of the exhibits under a labor union rule. St. Louis can tell us what it did to the exposition in that city, although labor union dominance was not absolute, as it is in the California city. But that question, grave as it may be, is extraneous—the demand that will be made is that San Francisco clean up the town, and let us tell you here, gentlemen, the demand is going to be strong. The support of the fair is going to be correspondingly light, until San Francisco is on a fair road to municipal cleanliness.

Do you know why we believe that the state is going to split on this question? Do you know why we are sure that Southern California will demand this? No, you probably do not. It is because of something not experienced in the Bay City, something not reckoned with, because it is not there. It is because Southern California is not either immoral nor unmoral, and has not dragged itself with graft so hideous that it makes thieves spit distastefully. Oh, don't get the idea that there is any "holier than thou" sentiment in this. It is now in the year 1911. It will take all of the intervening years to put San Francisco on a plane where it can welcome the citizens of the world with fairly clean hands. The tax payers of the state, who earn their money in honest business, have pledged themselves through legislative enactment to financially support the fair. First, from Southern California will come the withdrawal of moral support. Then tremendous pressure will be brought to bear upon a clean and upright governor, to withhold the financial support already promised. He will assist us to do it, too, or we are greatly mistaken in Johnson. He will become convinced that this money is being misappropriated, and that the state is in greater danger of being debauched in the eyes of the world.

How many newspapers, outside of the county of San Francisco will endorse this stand taken by the Covina Argus, think you? Governor Johnson said that the California weekly papers elected him. Supposing these same weeklies turn their attention to the horrible blot in San Francisco? There is no necessity for "supposing" any further, for this is just what is going to happen. However distasteful it may be, the state of California is going to establish a directorate over San Francisco before and during the Panama Exposition, or it will not be held with the moral and financial support of the entire state. An honest threat, this, made in plenty of time and for the digestion of the tax payers of the state.

Mrs. Ida Ames, who, with her children, is visiting relatives in the East, attended the wedding, June 1, of a cousin of her late husband, Miss Clara Reynolds to Mr. Richard Allen, her little daughter being the flower girl. The groom, who is a friend of the Rev. Catherwood, is the manager of a news boy home at Pittsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Scofield entertained a house party for the graduation of the daughter and son, Esther and Samuel. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Cole of Huntington Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Scofield, and daughter, May, of Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Smith and Mrs. Wilbur Barrett of Los Angeles.

EIGHTH GRADES GRADUATE

"LARK ELLEN" SINGS AND GIVES CHILDREN A DAY OF PLEASURE.

Covina Scholars at Curtis Ranch—Charter Oak Celebrates Growth of School District.

Seldom in the history of the Covina grammar school has there been such an enjoyable graduation as the one provided for the boys and girls on Thursday, when the entire class, with teachers, were the guests at the beautiful Curtis ranch in the hills of Glendora. The class went to the ranch in two wagonloads, accompanied by Principal W. J. Newsom, Mrs. Carrie Miller, Miss Eva B. Edwards, and Miss Georgia Shabo, arriving about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Curtis ranch is a beautiful place, set in surroundings of live oaks, amid the low hills of the foothill range, and Eleanor Curtis, a member of the graduating class, made a very admirable hostess, assisted by the teachers. C. Gray Curtis, the owner of the ranch, opened everything wide for the enjoyment of the pupils. There were games played on the spacious grounds, and tables for the lunch were laid on the lawn. After the fun of the day had progressed until it was growing late, Prof. J. J. Morgan of the Covina schools, called the pupils together, and presented each with a graduation diploma. Prof. Morgan spoke very happily of the life and future before the young boys and girls. Prof. Newsom also spoke. In reply to the words of the professors, Master Franz Dalin, a member of the graduating class, made a very acceptable speech.

After thanking the good people of the ranch for their hospitality, the class departed, one wagonload making the day even longer by taking a ride through the orange country in the hay rack. They were accompanied by Miss Edwards and Miss Shabo.

"LARK ELLEN" SINGS. At the Lark Ellen school, which bears its name in honor of Covina's prima donna singer, Ellen Beach Yaw, the children were given a decided treat on Thursday, when the famous singer appeared at the graduation exercises and sang a number of her songs. Among them was "California," her own composition, and the children sang it with her, delighted to be a part of the enjoyable song-singing. Madame Yaw also sang the French "Laughing Song," with which she has charmed many huge audiences, and ended by singing "Annie Laurie," and "Comin' Thro' the Rye." Another beautiful singer on the program was Miss Hayward, a protegee of Madame Yaw, who has come to visit from her home in San Jose. Miss Hayward sang two French nursery ballads, which pleased the children very much. Madame Yaw then treated the children to ice cream and cake. Only two children are ready to graduate from this school this year. They are Roy James and Arthur Carter. The teachers, Miss Leona Browning, and Miss Hazel Power, were capable assistants in making the affair an enjoyable one.

CHARTER OAK GROWING. It was a gala day for Charter Oak on Tuesday afternoon, when eighty scholars participated in the graduation exercises, out of which seven boys and girls were to graduate to the high school. In the building were fifty visitors, and the teachers, Miss Clara E. Thompson, and Miss Ada Blanchard, had arranged a program that was an interesting one to the parents and assembled audience. The graduates were Charles Zug, Seth Colver, Arthur Jenner, Herman Gore, Robert Ropp, Olga Foote, and Ida Herwitz.

The school where Miss Thompson has been the efficient teacher for seven years is soon to be enlarged, in fact it is to be made twice as large as it is at the present time, bonds being voted that will pay for an addition to cost $5500. The locality of Charter Oak has grown in prosperity during the last five years and is now assessed at a valuation of over a million dollars. A splendid exhibit of drawings, maps and compositions was inspected by the people. Trustee Bryan gave out the diplomas to the graduates, and Rev. W. W. Catherwood gave an interesting talk. On Thursday, Prof. J. J. Morgan came to the school and delivered an address on the closing year and the work to be taken up the coming term. Following is the program:

Song, "Jessie and Locket," by Irvin Curtis.
Recitation, "When Papa's Sick," by Irvin Curtis.
Recitation, "Willie and the Apple," by Minnie Zug.
Recitation, "Don't," by Lucile Beaty.
Selection from "Lady of the Lake," by eighth grade.
Dialogue, "Aunt Polly," by Eda Maude, and Van Beatty, Selma and Minnie Zug, Dick Jackson, and Vernie Johnson.
Recitation, Richard Scott.
Song, "Bird of the Azure Wing," by Dorene Hall, Eda Beatty, Mildred Jackson, and Ida Herwitz.
Recitation by Mabel Curtis.
Recitation by Marguerite Simmons.
Song, "Silver Bell," by Selma and Minnie Zug.
"Money Gens," by sixth grade.
Song, "The Little Black Moustache," by Vernie Johnson.
Recitation, "Sweet Melodies," by Esther Funk.
Address, Rev. W. W. Catherwood.

PROFESSOR BUILDS HOME.

Orange Street Is Fast Coming to Front As Desirable Place for Residence Building.

The improvements that are increasing rapidly on Orange street are making a decided change in that part of the city. Since Dr. J. D. Reed took over the large subdivision in this block, the eyes of the home-builders have been attracted to the locality. One of the fine residences on this street is the new home of Prof. C. J. Platt. The owner says that he does not appreciate the bungalow of the eastern style, which he calls the bungalow of Hindostan, but wants a big home, built on the United States plan, and he has certainly built for himself and wife a fine home. It is an American cottage. The interior was planned by Mrs. Platt. The parlor, dining-room and library may be thrown open so that it makes one large room, or closed by sliding doors, with an archway and the introduction of curtains. There are two nice bed-rooms, bathroom, and enclosed veranda. The kitchen is a gem of artistic work. Mrs. Platt says it has every convenience the heart of woman could desire. The architect of the building was John McCune, who has finished it in a very pretty style, inside and outside. Besides this home, Mr. Aschenbrenner is building a home for Mr. Maxwell, and recently, a pretty bungalow was erected for H. N. Wells, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

USE CAMPHOR INSTEAD.

Los Angeles Physician, Talking to Covina W. C. T. U., Says It Is As Good As Alcohol.

Dr. Harriet W. Carmon of Los Angeles, a lady physician and surgeon, was the speaker at the meeting of the Covina W.C.T.U. yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Matthews of Center street. The physician talked interestingly on the uses of alcohol in medical work, stating that, while it was not possible to entirely eliminate the use of alcoholic stimulants from the worst cases of sickness, it could very largely be done away with. The use of camphor in mild cases of fainting was a very good substitute for alcohol, she said.

The ladies attended the lecture very largely, and the address was voted to be one of interest and instruction. Silver medal contest will be held in the silver medal contest will be held in the Presbyterian church on Thursday, June 29.

Guests at the home of William Overholzer during the week were Mrs. Katie Codori of Florence and M. N. Overholzer of Princeton.

The wife of C. E. Tredway of the Covina high school is seriously ill at the Good Samaritan hospital, following the birth of a boy a few days ago. Mrs. Tredway was reported yesterday to be a little improved, but her condition is such that it is causing a great deal of anxiety.

Wendell A. Paige, son of Charles E. Paige, a Covina rancher, graduated on June 7 from the Washington college in Washington, D.C., and received high honors in his diploma, special mention being made of surgery. He has entered the George Washington hospital for a course in practical work. Young Mr. Paige is well known in Covina, where he has visited, and he is planning to later come to the coast to be the guest of his father.

APPRECIATION

We are pleased to be able to announce that there are many ranchers in this locality who stand ready to indorse the work which we have performed the past year in fumigating citrus orchards. We know that we have done first class work. The ranchers are also satisfied.

Wouldn't it be a good plan to get better acquainted with us, in anticipation of the season to come? Fumigation is almost a science. We have made a scientific study of the essentials. Communicate with us.

COVINA LOSES YARNELL.

Efficient Foreman of Packing House and Fumigator Has Been Snapped Up by Redlands.

Oscar Yarnell, for nine years in charge of the fumigation department of the Covina Citrus Association, has accepted a position as superintendent of the Redlands Fumigation Association, a new organization just formed, in the interests of the growers of Redlands. Mr. Yarnell was accepted because of his long experience in this work, and the association at Redlands feels well pleased that they have been so fortunate as to secure him.

That association fumigating in Redlands is a new thing, is because of the fact that the work has been done by private companies for many years, and it is said that the Redlands district has been growing gradually more difficult to keep clean from scale, as the groves get larger. The protection offered by the large trees gives the scale a chance to grow, where hitherto, the sun of summer months was wont to kill off the greater portion of the black scale.

Mr. Yarnell has been a thoroughly competent man since coming into the employ of the Covina association. He has been in charge of the packing house under the supervision of George A. Atwood, and it was claimed that he was one of the most efficient men in the business. President E. A. Moore of the Redlands association has been authorized to buy 200 tents and other outfit. Mr. Yarnell stated yesterday that he will begin work within a few days, and will move his family to Redlands at a later date.

OFFICERS RE-CHOSEN.

Amphion Society Meets With Mr. and Mrs. William Crook To Wind Up Year's Program.

The musical organization known as the "Amphion Society," closed a delightful season last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Crook. At the business session the officers were re-elected. President, Mr. Arthur Brown of Azusa; first vice, Mrs. W. M. Griswold; second vice, Mr. W. P. Nye; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Crook.

The program was devoted to McDowell, the greatest native composer. Miss Vyvienne Faudler gave a paper on the composer's life and works, illustrated by selections upon the piano. Vocal solos by Miss La Petra from the same composer were much enjoyed, and Edward Sprout contributed to the program in his usual happy style. Alex Anderson was accompanist.

A dainty collation was served later in the evening, the tables being artistically decorated with pink begonias and sweet peas. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. W. P. Nye.

The easiest thing in the world to get, and about the least expensive, is the Little Want Ad. Phone 3008.

ROAD WORK PROGRESSING.

Covina City Trustees Busy Supervising Streets—Grade Crossing Resolution Passed.

"Good work on the 'Good Roads' has been progressing during the last two months, and as a result, San Bernardino road is practically finished for travel. The sides are not finished, but the roadway from Baldwin Park, with the exception of a small strip, is in perfect shape for travel.

On Wednesday the contractor for the Citrus avenue work began to lay the first coat of asphalt from Center street, working north. The center of the city will be finished before the remainder of the street, which will not make it quite so inconvenient for the business section of the city.

At a meeting of the board of trustees on Tuesday evening, the board passed a resolution asking that the state railroad commissioner, who now has full power to act, be asked to use his authority in the installation of grade crossing signals in the Covina city and country. The resolution grew out of the accident which occurred on Sunday at Azusa avenue. It was asked that signals, or some adequate device, be installed at the dangerous intersections, both on the Pacific Electric and Southern Pacific roads. The crossing at Grand avenue on the Southern Pacific, near the Mountain View ranch, was especially spoken of. Automobileists and teams have been in great danger at this point.

Red Spider Disappearing.

All ranchers who took the precaution to start spraying for red spider early in the season are now enjoying immunity from this pest in the citrus groves. The spraying, according to advices from the horticultural inspectors, has been successful. Many groves are still infested with red spider, but where work has been done, both in dry and wet spraying, the spider has lost his grip. The pest is not making any serious inroads on the trees, but must be fought intelligently, or it will spread.

Easterner Buys Grove.

Twenty acres of young Valencia, situated at the corner of Riddick and Glendora avenues in Charter Oak, sold this week for $16,000. The owner, H. W. Bailey, of Pasadena, who also owns forty acres in Covina, sold the ranch to J. P. McCulley, a recent arrival from the East. Mr. McCulley is a brother-in-law of Dr. Keiser, who owns a fine ranch in that vicinity. The property purchased by Mr. McCulley is considered to be one of the most promising groves in that locality. The sale was made through C. E. Boyle, who has recently sold a large amount of property in Covina.

Physician's Sister Dies.

Dr. J. D. Reed has just returned from Kansas City, Missouri, where he attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. R. M. Cook, who died on Thursday, June 8. The funeral was held on Saturday, June 10. Dr. Reed received notice of his sister's illness, and started immediately, but was not able to reach his sister's bedside before death occurred.

Collides With Auto.

An accident to Roscoe E. Smith, a motorcyclist, occurred last Sunday on Puente street, as he was returning from a run to Long Beach. An automobile turned suddenly into a yard and the two machines collided. Smith, who is employed at the Ax Billy store, was trying out his machine for his first long trip. He was badly bruised, and the machine smashed.

Young Singer Here.

Miss Ruth Hayward, a young girl protégée of Madame Ellen Beach Yaw, is the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harnish. She has just completed a term in languages at Palo Alto, and is studying grand opera scores. Miss Hayward is known to many in Covina, where she has been heard in exquisite renditions of ballad songs.

The Cap'n Grows 'Em.

"Cap'n" Stowe, once the efficient skipper of a Missouri river steamboat, is now teaching cucumbers how to shoot in his ranch gardens in Covina, and he is ahead of the season as usual. Some very fine cucumbers were brought into the Argus office by the captain this week, and he has a variety of vegetables that are steering a straight course with the captain on the bridge.

Talk On Fumigation.

The Covina Valley Farmers' Club meets this afternoon at 2:30 p. m. in the Woman's club house, with Prof. Woodworth of the University of California as the speaker. Prof. Woodworth will talk on the fumigation of citrus trees. The ladies have prepared a good musical program.

Bachelor Dance Pleasant.

Pleasure was equally distributed at the dance of the Bachelors' club in Coolman's hall last Saturday evening. About 35 couples enjoyed the music by Robert Phillee and Katherine Phillee, violinist and pianist, and the floor was kept filled with dancers until midnight. The dance was an exceptionally pleasant one, and the patrons hope that it is only one of many that these young men will plan. The committee was composed of Howard Douglas, Reeves Eason, Carl Shirley, and Elmer Shirley.

Los Angeles Residence.

In the account of the sale of the Sutherland & MacKenzie grove last week, a statement that property in Pasadena was taken in exchange should have stated that it was in Los Angeles instead. Mr. Sutherland will live in his new property on West 24th street, near Berkeley square.

BIXBY'S LAST COPY.

High School Lad Has Written For Many Years for Argus and Pleased Many Readers.

Arthur Bixby, the high school correspondent of the Argus, has sent in his "valedictory copy" to the Argus this week, and inasmuch as this is his last year in the educational system of Covina, he will probably never write any more school news. The Argus is sorry to lose the ingeniously written copy from Bixby, although he is, of course, going into a broader field. His quips and jests, and a certain kindly understanding of the humorous things that take place in the school work, have made his "High School Notes" very readable.

Bixby says that he will spend the summer in the eastern states, and will probably take up some kind of newspaper work while back there. The Argus bids him "Godspeed," with no doubt whatever but that he will succeed in whatever he chooses.

Covina Trims Chino.

The Covina ball team won from the Chino team in the tenth inning by a score of 10 to 5, in the game played on the Chino grounds last Sunday. The game was a slow one up to the last inning, when the locals piled up five. Pitts, the Chino slabster, was humiliated unmercifully.

Eddie Russell twirled a first notch game for the locals, allowing seven scattered hits. Tomorrow Covina plays Cucamonga at Cucamonga. The following week Glendora and Covina meet for the deciding game of the Citrus League. Interest is concentrated on this event.

Wet Salt

In our windows, you will see this week, an Automatic refrigerator, among other things in it, is a dish of salt. We wish to show that the refrigerator produces

DRY REFRIGERATION.

Salt gathers moisture, wherever there is moisture. There is no moisture in an Automatic refrigerator, as the salt will test. Instead of the salt becoming wet, it becomes more dry in this receptacle. Dry air is needed. It is the kind that keeps food from spoiling.

Also in the window — White Mountain Ice Cream Freezers. They are the famous triple motion. The can revolves one way, the blades another, and there is separate revolution in the center. Ask for our ice cream recipe book, "Frozen Dainties."
